Marysville Marine Initiates Coverage of Ignition Components from CDI Electronics

November 20, 2009

Marysville Marine (www.marysvillemarine.com) of Marysville, Michigan has initiated support for ignition components from CDI Electronics. CDI is the premier supplier of replacement outboard ignition components. Marysville will stock and promote CDI components in each of its three distribution centers in Wisconsin, Tennessee and Michigan.

Thomas James, CDI sales manager explained: "We are delighted to add Marysville Marine to our stable of distribution partners. Marysville provides service coverage in regions where dealers are asking for a greater CDI presence."

Mark Knust, President of Marysville Marine remarked: "We are excited about the service and diagnostic capabilities that CDI will bring to our dealer base. We see great value in CDI's reputation for dealer support in diagnosing outboard engine problems. Their product designs and manufacturing are the best in the industry and superior to the original equipment."

CDI Electronics (www.cdielectronics) is located in Madison, Alabama and has been serving the marine industry for 26 years. To learn more about CDI products or to diagnose an ignition problem, contact the CDI Technical Support Line at +1-866-423-4832.
